

Dear Dan -

May 25, 1967

Since you are a discreet guy and have an uncanny way of knowing when you have the right pieces to a puzzle - I will tell you I know the letter to Ernest story was correct. This little al' gal told my sister years later that she did everything she could to break up Ernest and me because she wanted him herself - and expected to get him. She was younger than I, but much more mature.
She told me she was hearing from him as I remember. That didn't bother me. He was a friend and not a romance and I had no feeling or threat. What a strange little thing I was.

I haven't wanted to go into any thing involving other people.
But this small bit does explain.
I doubt if sticking to truth would have bothered her.
Time to leave -
from
