Dear Don -

I continue to feel sorry that your thoughts I was upset with you. your Vrigo showing.

To me - the most sad thing about C. B.'s book is the fact that it will be studied by future ages of school children.
What a wrong general impression they will gain. He emphasized the wrong things could it be because he thought this would sell the book. I have no desire to reach more of it.

What no one - including you - can realize is how closely supervised I was - as were all of my friends. At the Bay it was by my uncle and Mrs. Delmonico.
Had I sat around a camp fire alone with Ernest - just once - I would have been reported and jerked home so fast that my feet wouldn't have touched the ground. At home, my grandmother - was always near. Her bedroom was off the living room with the door open. Pudge was usually in the room studying. He could take walks to talk alone - but hardly conducive to love making. Love making was not on my mind. Even that publicized party at Bay View had Ruth Smith and Homer Zipp as chaperones. All parties had chaperones. I wasn't even allowed to go on school hay rides. There were very few cars - and more running in the winter.

It is good to be home. The weather is wonderful - golf and bridge have started. Next week I will begin a day at work at O. Bledt Hospital (Women's auxiliary). Life is good -

Love -

Marge -

Does it seem logical to you that Ernest would lose his virginity in such a time and place after being in Italy with war situations?

Two things C B had right - I had red hair and freckles. Ernest sometimes waited for me after school -
