Monday -

My dear Don & Ruth,

I find myself wondering how the world goes for you. I have been spending the winter fighting the London flu. It goes away and then comes back - so I'm not certain which of us will win.

I have nothing of great interest to write about. Georgie and I have a nice invitation to visit for a month in Naples. Georgie will go in June - but I don't yet feel up to making plans for travel. I am comfortable here with all conveniences for following the special diets required for this miserable pestilence. Bill and Peggy Ahle are urging me to go to Petoskey - which I may do. But the fact that E Hemingway made the name Marjorie Bump one talked about, still stands as a barrier.

Foolish of me I know - for who really cares.

Do write me about your folks - Love

Marge
